INDEX TO VOLUME 22

A

Access and visitation grant mediation programs: description of, 13; DHHS funding of, 13; outcomes of, 14–15; participant satisfaction and, 14; program elements of, 13–14; settlement rates and, 14

Administrative Dispute Resolution Act (ADRA), 146–14, 221

Alternative dispute resolution (ADR): exit-voice model and, 180; private and federal sectors, 148; growth of, 173; high-performance organizational model and, 181; macro-organizational perspective and, 179–181; micro-organizational effects of, 182–183; nonunion dispute resolution and, 179–180; organizational dimensions and, 180–181; societal influences on, 177–179. See also Conflict resolution; Employment dispute resolution (EDR); Environmental conflict resolution (ECR); Mediation; Online dispute resolution (ODR)

Alternative dispute resolution research: comparative studies and, 186; first-generation, 177–179; multidimensional models for, 184–186; new paradigm in, 186; next generation of, 184–186; paradigmatic shift in, 176; second-generation, 179–181; third-generation, 182–184

American Arbitration Association (AAA), 150, 153, 160, 165–166

Amsler, T., "From the Funder's Perspective," 317–320

Antibias education, 237. See also Conflict resolution education (CRE)

Arbitration: employment dispute resolution and, 159–160; litigation vs., 160; mandatory, 160

Articles: "Can Online Mediation Be Transformative? Tales from the Front," 437–451; "Ethical Considerations in Drama and Conflict Resolution Research in Swedish and Australian Schools," 381–396; "Habermas's Theory of Communicative Action as a Theoretical Framework for Mediation Practice," 325–348; "Integral Conflict Analysis: A Comprehensive Quadrant Analysis of an Organizational Conflict," 349–363; "Interaction Reflection as Creative Teaching Strategy," 365–379; "Mediation Windfalls: Value Beyond Settlement? The Perspectives of Georgia Magistrate Court Judges," 419–435; "Transformative Mediation: In Search of a Theory of Practice," 397–408

Australia. See Drama and Conflict (DRACON) International project

Avgar, A. C., "Commentary: Research on Employment Dispute Resolution: Toward a New Paradigm," 175–189

B

Bagshaw, D., "Ethical Considerations in Drama and Conflict Resolution Research in Swedish and Australian Schools," 381–396

Bailey, J. D., "Couple Empowerment in Divorce: A Comparison of Mediated and Nonmediated Outcomes," 453–472

Baron, L., "Commentary: The Case for the Field of Community Mediation," 135–144

Barton, A. B., "Mediation Windfalls: Value Beyond Settlement? The Perspectives of Georgia Magistrate Court Judges," 419–435

Batton, J., "Commentary: Considering Conflict Resolution Education: Next Steps for Institutionalization," 269–278

Benjamin, M., "Using the 'Mediatable Frame' to Define the Problem in Mediating a Parenting Plan," 473–491

Bingham, L. B., "Commentary: Comment on Frank Dukes's 'What We Know About Environmental Conflict Resolution,'" 221–231; Employment Dispute Resolution: The Case for Mediation," 145–174

C

"Can Online Mediation Be Transformative? Tales from the Front," 437–451
Child protection mediation, in California: cost savings and, 25; description of, 24; outcomes of, 24–25; participant compliance and, 25; participant satisfaction and, 25; settlement rates and, 24–25
Child protection mediation, in Colorado: cost efficiencies and, 26; description of, 25; outcomes of, 26; participant satisfaction and, 26; program elements and, 25–26; settlement rates and, 26
Chilton, S., "Habermas's Theory of Communicative Action as a Theoretical Framework for Mediation Practice," 325–348
Coates, R. B., "Victim-Offender Mediation: Three Decades of Practice and Research," 279–303
Colloquy: "Couple Empowerment in Divorce: A Comparison of Mediated and Nonmediated Outcomes," 453–472; "Family Mediation: The Development of the Regulatory Framework in the United Kingdom," 509–526; "Using the 'Mediatable Frame' to Define the Problem in Mediating a Parenting Plan," 473–491; "Victim Needs and Conjugal Violence: Do Victims Want Decision-Making Power?" 493–508
"Commentary: The Case for the Field of Community Mediation," 135–144
"Commentary: Comment on Frank Dukes's 'What We Know About Environmental Conflict Resolution,'" 221–231
"Commentary: Considering Conflict Resolution Education: Next Steps for Institutionalization," 269–278
"Commentary: Focusing on Program Design Issues in Future Research on Court-Connected Mediation," 55–88
"Commentary: The Future of the History of Family Mediation Research," 37–54
"Commentary: Research on Employment Dispute Resolution: Toward a New Paradigm," 175–189
"Commentary: Restorative Justice: Beyond Victim-Offender Mediation," 305–315
Communicative action theory. See Habermas's communicative action theory, and mediation
Community mediation: accessibility and, 112; altruism and, 118; arbitration and, 114; boards model and, 114; coercion and, 115–116; community mediation center model and, 105; core characteristics of, 104, 117; cost efficiency and, 123–124; data collection needs and, 135–136; definition of, 104; dispute system design and, 106–109; due process protections and, 112; education and, 114–115, 139–140; fairness and, 122; forms of participation in, 115–119; funding and, 106, 110–111, 137–143; goals of, 101, 103, 118, 125; history of, 102–104; impact of, 119; incentive structure and, 118–119; intergroup conflict and, 114; intervention timing and, 116–117; local and national organizations and, 110; measures of success of, 119–124; mediator characteristics and, 117; mediator qualifications and, 117–118; mediator training and, 117; National Association for Community Mediation and, 104, 106, 135–136, 138–139, 141–144; need for research on, 125–128; Neighborhood Justice Centers (NCJ) program and, 102–103, 106; neighborhood justice model and, 105; panel mediation model and, 113; participant satisfaction with mediator and, 121–122; participant satisfaction with process and, 120–121; participant satisfaction with resolution and, 122; policy issues and, 114, 139, 143–144; publicity and, 109–110, 139–140; resolution durability and, 122–123; resolution rate and, 119–110; sector and, 106; self-determination and, 109, 115; services provided in, 113; strategies to strengthen, 135–140; structure of, 105–115; time efficiency and, 124; training/leadership development and, 136–137; transformative mediation model and, 113; types of court relationships and, 105; types of, 105

Conflict intensity, 497
Conflict management training, for teachers, 409–410
Conflict management training, in Ohio colleges (survey): benefits of, 411–412; conclusion, 412–413; importance of, 412; inadequacy of, 410–411; lack of, 413; purpose of, 410; qualitative data results, 411–412
Conflict resolution: advancing knowledge and, 319; collaboration among fields and, 319; funding for, 317–318; Hewlett Conflict Resolution Program and, 318–319. See also Alternative dispute resolution (ADR); Child protection mediation; Community mediation; Custody mediation; Divorce mediation; Employment dispute resolution (EDR); Environmental conflict resolution (ECR); Family mediation; Mediation; Peer mediation; Victim-offender mediation (VOM)
Conflict resolution education (CRE): antibias education and, 237; BEST program and, 254; bullying prevention programs and, 253–254; Conflict Resolution in Teacher Education project and, 274; creating constructive conflict communities and, 235–236; creating constructive learning environments and, 234–235; creating safe learning environments and, 234; curriculum integration and, 254–255; definition of, 233–234; educational level and, 241–242; effectiveness of, 269; enhancing student social/emotional development and, 235; federal support for, 269; foundational programs/practices of, 237; goals of, 234–236; implementation characteristics and, 242; in-school capacity and, 273; institutionalization issues for, 270–276; international clearinghouse for, 273–274; National Curriculum Integration Project and, 255, 271–272; negotiation and general conflict curricula and, 252–253; No Child Left Behind Act and, 233; partnerships and, 273; peace education and, 236, 251–257; Peaceable Place program and, 254; peaceable school programs and, 255–257; Peacebuilders Program and, 256–257; peer mediation and, 243–251; preservice programs in, 272–274; process curricula and, 251–254; program models of, 241; RCCP program and, 255–256; SEL curricula and, 251–254; SMART talk intervention and, 253; social and emotional learning and, 236–238, 251–254; structural elements of, 241–242; target population and, 242; value of, 233; violence prevention and, 236; whole-school programs and, 255–257
"Conflict Resolution Education: The Field, the Findings, and the Future," 233–267
Conflict resolution education research: assessment of, 257; college courses/curricula and, 276; future directions for, 257–258; general reviews of, 239–240; institutionalization efforts and, 277; preservice training and, 277; questions for future, 270; SEL reviews and, 240–241; social-political factors and, 276–277; on structural elements, 241–242; suggestions for, 276–277
Conflict Resolution in Teacher Education (CRETE) project, 274
Conflict theory, transformative mediation and, 398
Conjugal violence victims. See Domestic violence victims
Consortium on Negotiation and Conflict Resolution (CNCR), 365
Consultants: as artists, 350; assumptions of, 349
Couple empowerment, in divorce mediation (study): additional analysis and, 465–466; benefits of mediation and, 467; conclusion, 470; control over resolution destiny and, 455–456, 468–469; data collection, 459–460; definition of terms and, 456–457; discussion, 466–467; findings, 462–466; generalized estimation equation method and, 463–464; hypothesis, 461; instrument, 460; measures,

460–461; mediator effects and, 467, 469; methods, 458–461; pilot study, 460; practice/research implications, 468–470; sample, 458–459, 469; setting, 457–458; Standard Possession Order and, 457–458, 460–462, 464–466, 470; study limitations, 467–468; study strengths, 468
"Couple Empowerment in Divorce: A Comparison of Mediated and Nonmediated Outcomes," 453–472
Court-connected dispute resolution (research review): conclusion, 80–82; future research and, 93–96; mediation efficacy and, 90–93; mediation in appellate cases and, 70–75; mediation in small claims cases and, 56–60; mediation in general jurisdiction civil cases and, 61–70; neutral evaluation in general jurisdiction civil cases and, 75–78; outcome comparison in general jurisdiction civil cases and, 79–80. See also Court-connected mediation; Mediation, in appellate cases; Mediation, in general jurisdiction civil cases; Mediation, in small claims cases; Neutral evaluation, in general jurisdiction civil cases
Court-connected mediation: funding for, 420; litigant representation and, 420; litigant telling of stories and, 420–421. See also Court-connected dispute resolution; Georgia magistrate court; Magistrate judges' perception of mediation value (study)
Cousineau, M., "Victim Needs and Conjugal Violence: Do Victims Want Decision-Making Power?" 493–508
Custody mediation: definition, 5. See also Access and visitation grant mediation programs; Divorce mediation; Family mediation
Custody mediation, in California: California legislation regarding, 4–9; description of, 4–5; domestic violence and, 6; mediation outcomes and, 8–9; participant compliance and, 9; participant relationships and, 8; participant satisfaction and, 7–8; program elements of, 5–6; settlement rates and, 6–7
Custody mediation, in Ohio: description of, 26–27; outcomes of, 27–28; participant satisfaction and, 28; program elements and, 27; settlement rates and, 27–28; time/money efficiencies and, 28
Custody mediation, in Virginia: description of, 10–11; mediation outcomes of, 11–13; participant compliance and, 13; participant relationships and, 12–13; participant satisfaction and, 11–12; program elements of, 11; settlement rates and, 11; time efficiencies and, 13
Custody mediation research: California courts and, 4–9. See also Family mediation research
Cuzzo, M.S.W., "Habermas's Theory of Communicative Action as a Theoretical Framework for Mediation Practice," 325–348

D

Decision control, 495
Diamond Approach. See Organizational conflict analysis, Diamond Approach to Dispute resolution. See Court-connected dispute resolution (research review); Mediation Dispute system design, 150–163, 166
Diversity, interactive reflection and, 369
Divorce and Mediation Project, 15. See also Divorce mediation, in California
Divorce education programs, 40–41
Divorce mediation: divorce education programs and, 40–41; early opposition to, 3; research in, 455; research support for, 3. See also Custody mediation; Family mediation
Divorce mediation, in California: cost savings and, 20; description of, 15; outcomes of, 16–21; participant compliance and, 20–21; participant relationships and, 18; participant satisfaction and, 17; program elements and, 15–16; settlement rates and, 16–17; time efficiencies and, 19
Divorce mediation research. See Family mediation research
Domestic violence victims: common couple violence and, 503; criminal justice interventions and, 493–494, 497–498, 502; decision-making control of, 493–494, 497–498, 502; definition of terms and, 503; empowerment of, 494;

future research on, 505; intimate terrorism and, 505; limitations on input of, 493; mandatory policies and, 498; mediation and, 503–504; mutual violent control and, 505; needs/expectations of, 497–502; portrayal of, 494; procedural justice theory and, 494–497; protective action for, 498, 503–504; restorative justice programs and, 503–504; third-party intervention and, 498–501; types of, 503; unmanageable conflict and, 501–502; violent resistance and, 505. See also Victims

Drama and Conflict (DRACON) International project: assumptions of, 382–383; cultural bias and, 388; drama-in-education's role and, 383; educational theory and, 383; ethical considerations and, 384–385; ethical principles and, 386–388; evaluation of, 384; examples of ethical dilemmas (Australian project), 390–391; examples of ethical dilemmas (Swedish project), 388–389; program components and, 383–384; providing conflict management education/training and, 383–384; purpose of, 381; reflexive questions and, 387; reflexivity and, 386–387; stage 1: surveys of student conflict experience, 381–382; stage 2: analysis of drama-in-education and conflict handling, 382–384. See also Drama-and-conflict research

Drama-and-conflict research: confidentiality and, 391–393; dealing with therapeutic issues and, 386, 394; debriefing and, 392; ethical considerations in, 391–393; ethical implications and, 392; feedback and, 393; informed consent and, 391, 393; providing safe environment and, 392; research bias and, 393; responsibility/liability issues and, 393–394. See also Drama and Conflict (DRACON) International project

Dukes, E. F., "What We Know About Environmental Conflict Resolution: An Analysis Based on Research," 191–220

E

"Effectiveness of Court-Connected Dispute Resolution in Civil Cases, The," 55–88

Emerson, K., "Commentary: Comment on Frank Dukes's 'What We Know About Environmental Conflict Resolution,'" 221–231

Employment dispute resolution (EDR): Agency for Healthcare Research Quality and, 151; agency mediation programs and, 159; arbitration and, 159–161; binding vs. nonbinding arbitration and, 153–154; characteristics of neutrals and, 164–166; control over dispute system design and, 152–154; cost savings and, 148; definition of, 114; due process protections and, 161–163; Due Process Protocol and, 167; employer mediation programs and, 157–159; equal employment opportunity and, 145, 151–152, 155, 164; Equal Employment Opportunity Commission and, 147–148, 155, 159; federal sector and, 147–148; inside vs. outside neutrals and, 164–165; integrated conflict management systems and, 150–153; intervention timing, 163–164; legislation about, 146–148; Massachusetts Commission Against Discrimination and, 154–155, 163, 164–166; mediation process in, 147, 149–150, 156–159; National Institutes of Health and, 152; in New York, 154; in North Carolina, 149; ombuds programs and, 151–152; one-part designs and, 152–154; private sector and, 146–147; program implementation/institutionalization and, 155; questions in, 145; repeat player considerations and, 153; representation and, 161–163; sector or setting for, 146–150; silo or stovepipe programs and, 152; in South Carolina, 149; state/local sector, 148–150; system design for, 150–163; system-level design and, 150–152; third-party designs and, 154; transformative mediation and, 156–157; two-party designs and, 154; type of intervention and, 156–161; typical cases of, 145; U.S Department of Agriculture and, 152, 155; U.S. Department of Labor and, 152, 155; U.S. Postal Service REDRESS program and, 148, 157–158, 161–162, 164, 227; voluntary vs. mandated, 163

Employment dispute resolution research: issues for future, 166–167; mediation models "Employment Dispute Resolution: The Case for Mediation," 145–174
Empowerment: components of, 454; conceptual definition of, 456–457; custody issues and, 456; dispute resolution and, 453; mandatory mediation and, 455; mediation and, 455, 467; mediation theory and, 453–455; online mediation and, 444–446; research on, 455–456; transformative aspect of, 454. See also Couple empowerment, in divorce mediation (study)
Environmental conflict resolution (ECR): agreement and, 204–205; agreement-building processes and, 202–205; critics of, 193; definition of, 191–192; dimensions of success in, 205; enforcement disputes and, 194–196, 209; environmental outcomes and, 213–215, 222–225; Environmental Protection Agency and, 207–210; environmental system complexity and, 213; funding issues and, 208–209; institutionalization of, 208; Institute for Environmental Negotiation and, 203; interplay of processes in, 193; land use conflict and, 196, 202; legislation concerning, 221; mediated consensus building vs. mediation and, 203; mediator learning and, 216; mediator neutrality and, 207–208; National Environmental Policy Act and, 224; participant negotiation skills and, 198–199; participant relationship change and, 197–198; participant satisfaction and, 199–201; program impacts and, 229; programmatic vs. organic processes and, 210; public and private contexts and, 208–210; settlement durability and, 202; settlement rates for, 193–197; socioenvironmental systems impact and, 211–215; structural elements of, 192; terminology for, 191–192; third-party facilitation and, 206–208; transaction cost savings and, 201–202; transformative outcomes and, 205; types of disputes in, 191; upstream and downstream, 210–211; variety of, 212–213; waste management conflicts and, 206; watershed partnerships and, 206–207
Environmental conflict resolution research: building database for, 223–225; data collection and, 226–229; decentralized data collection and, 228; early, 191; electronic data collection and, 226–227; future directions for, 214–215; issues in, 193–215; longitudinal data collection and, 228–229; need for program theory/model for, 22–223; routine data collection and, 227–228
"Ethical Considerations in Drama and Conflict Resolution Research in Swedish and Australian Schools," 381–396
Ethics: ethical guidelines and, 385–386; moral principles and, 384; qualitative research and, 386–388; values and, 386
"Evolution and Evaluation of Community Mediation: Limited Research Suggests Promise, The," 101–133

F

Family group conferences (FGCs), 306. See also Victim-offender mediation
Family mediation: benefits of, 29; cautions regarding, 29; client distrust and, 28; client satisfaction and, 29, 41; differentiated case management model and, 42; disputant attitudes/expectations and, 41; domestic violence and, 30–31; framing in, 477–478; funding of, 45; marital therapy and, 42; multiproblem families and, 38, 42; mutual responsibility model and, 473; premediation interventions and, 40–41; problem definition and, 473; rational (facilitative) model of, 473–477; reframing and, 473–474; settlement rates and, 28; support for, 28; therapeutic model and, 473–477. See also Custody mediation; Divorce mediation; Therapeutic family mediation
Family Mediation Pilot Project, 21. See also Family mediation, in Canada
Family mediation research: antecedent conditions and, 40–42; background of, 3–4; case studies, 4–28; child protection mediation programs and, 24–28; custody mediation projects and, 4–15; definition of terms and, 42–43; divorce mediation and, 3–4; divorce mediation projects and, 15–23; early promises of, 37–38; first-generation, 3–4; future directions in, 29–31; increasing complexities of, 38; limitations to, 31; mediation models and, 30–31; mediator behaviors/techniques and, 31; multilevel approach to, 38; outcome research and, 47–49; process research and, 44–47; psychotherapy research and, 39; research design and, 38–40; research types and, 39–40; screening (triage) of cases and, 42–44; summary of findings, 28–29. See also Custody mediation research

"Family Mediation Research: Is There Empirical Support for the Field?" 3–35
Family mediation, in Canada: description of, 21; outcomes of, 22–24; participant compliance and, 23; participant satisfaction and, 22; program elements and, 21–22; settlement rates and, 22; spousal violence and, 23
Family mediation, in Colorado: dispute processing and, 10; mediation outcomes of, 10; participant satisfaction and, 10; project elements of, 9–10; relitigation rates and, 10; settlement rates and, 10
Family mediation, in United Kingdom: accountability and, 522; alternative dispute resolution and, 514; British context and, 514–519; Council of Europe Recommendation and, 512–513; European Commission proposal and, 514; European context and, 512–514; evolution of, 509–510; fair process protections and, 511–512; Family Mediators' Association and, 514–515; general concerns and, 522–524; governmental intervention and, 516–517; importance of regulation of, 511–512; integrated regulation and, 520–522; legal profession and, 520; maintaining a balance in, 523; mediator qualifications and, 513, 520–522; mediator role and, 510; monitoring of, 524; National Family Mediation and, 514–515; national practice standards and, 521–522, 524; objectives of, 509; professionalization of, 509–510; public funding and, 522–523; research needs and, 524–525; self-regulation and, 510; training issues and, 513–515; UK College of Family Mediators and, 515–516
"Family Mediation: The Development of the Regulatory Framework in the United Kingdom," 509–526
Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service (FMCS), 227
Final Comments: "From the Funder's Perspective," 317–320
Frame conflict, 479
Frames: action and, 478; changing, 478; conflict and, 479; origins of, 478; social, 478
Framing: in family mediation practice, 477–478; mediation and, 474. See also Frames; Mediatable frames; Reframing
"From the Funder's Perspective," 317–320

G

Gaynier, L. P., "Transformative Mediation: In Search of a Theory of Practice," 397–408
Georgia magistrate court: alternative dispute resolution and, 421–422; case description and, 421; funding and, 422; jurisdiction of, 421; mediation and, 422. See also Magistrate judges' perception of mediation value (study)
Gestalt theory, and transformative mediation, 405–406

H

"Habermas's Theory of Communicative Action as a Theoretical Framework for Mediation Practice," 325–348
Habermas's communicative action theory, and mediation: applying presuppositions in mediation practice and, 333–335; concept of relationship and, 326; enabling the court sustain relationship and, 341–344, 347; importance of relationship and, 347; litigation and, 341; mediator role after outcome and, 344–347; premise of theory and, 347; preparing for litigation and, 336–341; presuppositions of argumentation and, 326–333; rationale for, 325–326; working with impasse and, 336, 347

Hate crimes: defined, 528; post-September 11 and, 528–529; victim-offender mediation and, 528. See also Restorative justice, September 11 and (study)
Hedeen, T., "The Evolution and Evaluation of Community Mediation: Limited Research Suggests Promise," 101–133
Hewlett Conflict Resolution Program, 318–319

I

Individual needs/behavior: needs theory and, 357–358; organizational conflict analysis and, 350, 358–360
Inlow, L, "Interaction Reflection as Creative Teaching Strategy," 365–379
Institute for Environmental Negotiation, 203
Institutionalization: definition of, 270; indicators for, 270–271
"Integral Conflict Analysis: A Comprehensive Quadrant Analysis of an Organizational Conflict," 349–363
Integrated conflict management systems (ICMS), 150–152
"Interaction Reflection as Creative Teaching Strategy," 365–379
Interactive reflection (IR): challenges to teaching, 372–374; conflict resolution instruction and, 369–372; Consortium on Negotiation and Conflict Resolution role in, 365; critical feedback and, 370–372, 374, 376; debriefing exercise and, 368; defensiveness and, 370–371; definition of, 365; as evaluative measure of training objectives, 374–375; evaluative questions and, 374–375; Johari Window model and, 366–367; learning community and, 369; limitations and risks of, 375–376; measures of progress and, 375; metacognition and, 371; multicultural awareness and, 369–370; negative feedback experiences and, 376; perspective-taking abilities and, 370; power dynamics and, 374; purpose of, 365; reflection and, 371, 375; role of coach in, 373–374; suggestions for using, 373; survey exercise and, 367–368; therapeutic issues and, 374–376; in training exercise, 366–368; transformative learning and, 370–372
Interest-based negotiation (problem solving), 95
Irving, H. H., "Using the 'Mediatable Frame' to Define the Problem in Mediating a Parenting Plan," 473–491

J

Johari Window model of human behavior, 366–367
Jones, T. S., "Conflict Resolution Education: The Field, the Findings, and the Future," 233–267

K

Kelly, Joan B., "Family Mediation Research: Is There Empirical Support for the Field?" 3–35

L

Lande, J., "Commentary: Focusing on Program Design Issues in Future Research on Court-Connected Mediation," 55–88
Leadership: organizational conflict analysis and, 350, 360–362; theories of, 361
Learning community, interactive reflection and, 369
Learning, by mediators/facilitators, 216. See also Learning community; Transformative learning
Leighfield, K., "Teacher Education Programs in Ohio and Conflict Management: Do They Walk the Walk?" 409–413
Lepp, M., "Ethical Considerations in Drama and Conflict Resolution Research in Swedish and Australian Schools," 381–396
Lipsky, D. B., "Commentary: Research on Employment Dispute Resolution: Toward a New Paradigm," 175–189
Litigation, mediation and, 341–344, 347

M

McGuigan, R., "Integral Conflict Analysis: A Comprehensive Quadrant Analysis of an Organizational Conflict," 349–363
McMechan, S., "Integral Conflict Analysis: A Comprehensive Quadrant Analysis of an Organizational Conflict," 349–363

Magistrate judges' perception of mediation value (study): conclusions, 431–432; court-connected mediation literature and, 419–420; interview questions and, 432–434; methodology, 422–423; participant satisfaction with mediation and, 420; perceptions of how litigants tell stories and, 425–426, 431; perceptions of mediation and, 423–425, 431; perceptions of mediation value in magistrate court and, 426–429, 431–432; research questions, 419; training implications and, 429–431. See also Georgia magistrate court
Mediatable frame: advantages of, 487; as alternative parenting model, 483; children's interests and, 481; common interests of parents and, 480; family boundary rules and, 481; frame elements of, 479–483; marital and parenting roles and, 482; mediator role/authority and, 483–488; parents as executive decision makers and, 480–481; past memories/issues and, 482–483; practice implications of, 487–488; shared parenting and, 479–480; theory implications of, 486–487; therapeutic family mediation and, 479–488. See also Frames; Framing; Reframing
Mediation: code of ethics of, 115; definition of, 42–43; domestic violence victims and, 503–504; misuse of, by courts, 398; moral development and, 400, 402–403; participant satisfaction with, 420; self-determination and, 115. See also Access and visitation grant mediation; Alternative dispute resolution (ADR); Child protection mediation; Community mediation; Conflict resolution; Custody mediation; Divorce mediation; Employment dispute resolution (EDR); Environmental conflict resolution (ECR); Family mediation; Habermas's communicative action theory, and mediation; Magistrate judges' perception of mediation value (study); Peer mediation; Transformative mediation; Victim-offender mediation (VOM)
Mediation, in appellate cases: case characteristics and, 75; cost savings and, 74; description of studies and, 70–71; dispute processing efficiencies and, 74; impact of program structure and, 75; mediation format and, 75; outcomes and, 73–74; participant assessment and, 74; program structure and, 71–73; settlement rate and, 73
Mediation, in general jurisdiction civil cases: case characteristics and, 70; cost savings and, 67–68; description of studies and, 61–62; dispute processing and, 67; impact of program structure and, 68–70; litigant relationship and, 67; macrojustice and, 67; mediator approach and, 69; mediator characteristics and, 69–70; outcomes and, 64–70; participant assessment and, 65–66; program structure and, 62–64; referral mode and, 69; settlement durability and, 68; settlement rate and, 65; timing and, 68–69
Mediation, in small claims cases: case characteristics and, 60–61; description of studies and, 55–56; impact of program structure and, 60–61; litigant relationship and, 59; macrojustice and, 59; mediator characteristics and, 60; outcomes of, 58–61; participant assessment and, 58–59; program structure, 56–58; referral mode and, 60; settlement durability and, 59–60; settlement rate and, 58
Mediation modes, 44
Mediation research: cost savings and, 92–93; empowerment and recognition and, 95–96; interest-based negotiation and, 95; mediation program design and, 96; mediator evaluation and, 93–94; participant assessment and, 93; settlement rates and, 90–91; substantive justice and, 94–95; time savings and, 91–92; types, 39–40. See also Conflict resolution education research; Employment dispute resolution research; Environmental conflict resolution research; Family mediation research; Outcome research; Process research; Victim-offender mediation research
"Mediation Windfalls: Value Beyond Settlement? The Perspectives of Georgia Magistrate Court Judges," 419–435

Mediators: art of, 45; learning by, 216; role of, and mediation mode, 44; as stewards, 397;
Metacognition, transformative learning and, 371
Moral principles, 384

N

National Association for Community Mediation (NAFCM), 104, 106, 135–136, 138–139, 141–144
National Association for Community Mediation, 398
National Curriculum Integration Project (NCIP), 255, 271–272
National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA), 224
Needs theory, 357–358
Negotiated Rulemaking Act, 221
Neighborhood Justice Centers (NCJ) program, 102–103, 106. See also Community mediation
Neutral evaluation, in general jurisdiction civil cases: cost savings and, 78; description of studies and, 75–76; dispute processing efficiencies and, 78; litigant relationship and, 78; outcomes and, 77–79; participant assessment and, 78; program structure and, 76–77; settlement rate and, 77
No Child Left Behind Act, 233

O

Ohio. See Conflict management training, in Ohio colleges (survey)
O'Leary, R., "Commentary: Comment on Frank Dukes's 'What We Know About Environmental Conflict Resolution,'" 221–231
Ombuds programs, 151–152
Online dispute resolution (ODR): closure and, 442; growth of, 437, 449; Internet and, 437; online mediation and, 440–441; skepticism about, 437; transformative techniques and, 442–443, 449. See also Online mediation
Online mediation: advantages of, 438, 449; cases appropriate for, 440; description of, 439; disputant apologies and, 441–442; disputant characteristics and, 439–440; empowerment and, 444–446; growth of, 437, 449; impasse in, 438; mediation process and, 439–440; miscommunication and, 438; negative attributions and, 445–446; process introduction/framing and, 443–444; recognition and, 446–447; skepticism about, 438; support for, 439; transformative model of online dispute resolution and, 440–441; what does and doesn't work in, 448–450. See also Online dispute resolution (ODR)
Organizational conflict analysis, Diamond Approach to: case study, 352–362; individual needs: analysis, 358–360; individual needs: interview questions, 358; leadership: analysis, 361–362; leadership: interview questions, 360–361; organizational culture: analysis, 354–355; organizational culture: interview questions, 354; teamwork: analysis, 356–357; teamwork: interview questions, 356; modernism and, 351–352; multiframe analysis models of, 351; organizational conflict cultures and, 355; single-quadrant analysis of, 351–352. See also Organizational conflict analysis, Diamond Approach to Organizational culture: formal rules and, 356; norms of, 356; organizational conflict analysis and, 350, 354–355. See also Organizational conflict analysis, Diamond Approach to
Outcome research: client satisfaction and, 47–48; defining mediation success and, 47–48; mediation impacts and, 48–49

P

Patten-McGuire, A., "Interaction Reflection as Creative Teaching Strategy," 365–379
Peace education, 236, 251–257. See also Conflict resolution education (CRE)
Peaceable school programs, 255–257
Peer mediation programs: cadre, 243–245, 247–249; curriculum (class-linked), 243, 245–249; in elementary schools, 244–247; in high schools, 248–249; mentoring, 243–244, 246–247; in middle schools, 247–248; models of, 243–247; research on, 243, 249–251
Presuppositions of argumentation (Habermas), 326–335; conditions of conflict and, 337–340; institutional limits and, 343–344; judge's opening statement and, 342; logical semantic rules and, 328; mediator opening remarks and, 334; postoutcome mediation perspectives and, 345–346; rules of inclusion and engagement and, 330–332; search for truth and, 328–329; victors and losers and, 344–346. See also Habermas's communicative action theory, and mediation

Procedural justice theory: conflict intensity and, 497, 501–502; fairness and, 495–496; process control vs. decision control and, 495; relational model and, 495; therapeutic jurisprudence and, 496; third-party interventions and, 496–497
Process control, 495
Process research: basic question of, 45; mediation intervention mode approach to, 44; process variables and, 44–45; structural/practice variables and, 46–47; timing and, 44–45
Promise of Mediation, The (Bush and Folger), 322, 397, 402

Q

Qualitative research: ethical principles and, 384, 387–388; ethics and, 386; reflexivity and, 386–387; research claim and, 384–385

R

Raines, S. S., "Can Online Mediation Be Transformative? Tales from the Front," 437–451
Rational (facilitative) model, of mediation: application of, 477; assumptions of, 475; compared with rational model, 475–477, 488; intervention approach and, 476–477; practice principles of, 475–476; theory of, 475; values/beliefs of, 476
REDRESS studies, of transformative mediation, 398–399
Reflection, transformative learning and, 371, 375
Reflexivity, 386–387
Reframing: definition of, 474; mediation models and, 473–474. See also Frames; Framing; Mediatable frame
Relational model, of procedural justice, 495
Research claim, 384–385
Research Matters: "Restorative Justice Responses to Post-September 11 Hate Crimes: Potential and Challenges," 527–535; "Teacher Education Programs in Ohio and Conflict Management: Do They Walk the Walk?" 409–413
Restorative justice: basic assumptions of, 307; challenges to implementing, 532–533; conceptual framework of, 306; conflict transformation and, 308–309, 312; defined, 527; definition of, 307; domestic violence victims and, 503–504; family group conferences and, 306; future research questions on, 310–311; growth of, 281; international and national programs of, 307; mediation and, 312–313; needs-based vs. desserts-based models of, 306; peace building and, 309–310, 313–314; peacemaking circles and, 306; potential of, 529; principles of, 307; Seminars on Trauma Awarenesss and Recovery and, 309–310; September 11 and, 527–534; terminology and, 306, 312–313; trauma healing and, 308–311; victim-offender mediation and, 280–281, 306. See also Restorative justice, September 11 and (study); Victim-offender mediation (VOM)
Restorative justice, September 11 and (study): conclusion, 534; findings, 530–532; implementation challenges and, 532–533; lessons learned, 533–534; methodology, 530; post-September 11 responses and, 529; victim-offender mediation and, 531;
"Restorative Justice Responses to Post-September 11 Hate Crimes: Potential and Challenges," 527–535
Review Articles and Commentary: "Commentary: The Future of the History of Family Mediation Research," 37–54; "Commentary: The Case for the Field of Community Mediation," 135–144; "Commentary: Comment on Frank Dukes's 'What We Know About Environmental Conflict Resolution,'" 221–231; "Commentary: Considering Conflict Resolution Education: Next Steps for Institutionalization," 269–278; "Commentary: Focusing on Program Design Issues in Future Research on Court-Connected Mediation," 55–88; "Commentary: Research on Employment Dispute Resolution: Toward a New Paradigm," 175–189; "Commentary: Restorative Justice: Beyond Victim-Offender Mediation," 305–315; conflict resolution education field "Conflict Resolution Education: The Field, the Findings, and the Future," 233–267; "The Effectiveness of Court-Connected Dispute Resolution in Civil Cases, The," 55–88; "Employment Dispute Resolution: The Case for Mediation," 145–174; "The Evolution and Evaluation of Community Mediation: Limited Research Suggests Promise," 101–133; "Family Mediation Research: Is There Empirical Support for the Field?" 3–35; "Victim-Offender Mediation: Three Decades of Practice and Research," 279–303; "What We Know About Environmental Conflict Resolution: An Analysis Based on Research," 191–22

Robbins, S. P., "Couple Empowerment in Divorce: A Comparison of Mediated and Nonmediated Outcomes," 453–472

Roberts, M., "Family Mediation: The Development of the Regulatory Framework in the United Kingdom," 509–526

S

Saposnek, D. T., "Commentary: The Future of the History of Family Mediation Research," 37–54

School violence: increase in, 409; teacher education and, 409

Scientific inquiry, paradigmatic shift in, 175–176

Self-determination, 115

Social and emotional learning (SEL) curricula: PATHS, 251; Second Step Program, 251–252

Social and emotional learning (SEL) programs, 236–238, 251–254. See also Conflict resolution education (CRE); Peace education; Peer mediation programs; Violence prevention programs

Strobl, S., "Restorative Justice Responses to Post-September 11 Hate Crimes: Potential and Challenges," 527–535

Sweden. See Drama and Conflict (DRACON) International project

T

Teacher education programs. See Conflict management training, in Ohio colleges (survey)

"Teacher Education Programs in Ohio and Conflict Management: Do They Walk the Walk?" 409–413

Teamwork: formal rules and, 356; norms and, 356; organizational conflict analysis and, 350, 353, 356–357.

Therapeutic family mediation (TFM): functional vs. dysfunctional couples and, 486; mediatable frame and, 479–488; mediator role/authority and, 483–488. See also Family mediation; Therapeutic model, of mediation

Therapeutic model, of mediation: assumptions of, 475; compared with rational model, 475–477, 488; intervention approach and, 476–477; practice principles of, 475–476; theory of, 475; values/beliefs of, 476. See also Therapeutic family mediation (TFM)

Transformative learning: interactive reflection and, 370–371; metacognition and, 371; reflection and, 371; as threatening, 371

Transformative mediation: basic assumptions of mediation and, 398; basis of, 398; behavior theory and, 400; community mediation and, 113; conflict theory and, 398; critics of, 399–400; critique of Bush and Folger's approach to, 397–406; employment dispute resolution and, 156–157; empowerment and recognition and, 95–96, 113, 398, 400, 402–403, 405; Gestalt theory and, 405–406; mediator role and, 401–402, 403–404; methodology vs. objectives and, 402–404; need for pluralism and, 400; nondirective approach and, 401;

online dispute resolution and, 440–441; online mediation and, 442–443; Postal Service use of, 398; problems of, 402–404; REDRESS studies of, 398–399; Schein's models and, 404–405; self-determinism and, 402–404; theoretical construct for, 404–405; theory of practice and, 402–404; trends in 398–399
"Transformative Mediation: In Search of a Theory of Practice," 397–408
Trube, B., "Teacher Education Programs in Ohio and Conflict Management: Do They Walk the Walk?" 409–413

U

Umbreit, M. S., "Victim-Offender Mediation: Three Decades of Practice and Research," 279–303
U.S. Institute for Environmental Conflict Resolution, 208
U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, 207–210, 221
U.S. Postal Service REDRESS program, 148, 157–158, 161–162, 164
"Using the 'Mediatable Frame' to Define the Problem in Mediating a Parenting Plan," 473–491

V

Values, 386. See also Ethics
"Victim Needs and Conjugal Violence: Do Victims Want Decision-Making Power?" 493–508
Victim-offender mediation (VOM): America Bar Association and, 281–282; auspices for, 283; characteristics of, 283–285; characteristics/purposes of, 528; definition of, 279; as dialogue driven, 280; diversion of offenders and, 291–292; fairness and, 289–290; growth of, 281, 528; hate crimes and, 528; international programs and, 282; national organizations and, 282; participant satisfaction and, 287–289; participants in, 285–287; program costs and, 295–296; program structure and, 282–283; recidivism of offenders and, 292–294; restitution for victims and, 290–291; situations appropriate for, 281; terminology for, 279–280, 306
Victim-offender mediation research: longitudinal studies and, 298; meta-analysis and, 296–297; recommendations for future, 297–298; research designs and, 298
"Victim-Offender Mediation: Three Decades of Practice and Research," 279–303
Victim-offender reconciliation programs (VORPs), 279, 305. See also Victim-offender mediation (VOM)
Victims: decision-making role of, 493; input of, into criminal justice system, 493; research on, 493–484. See also Domestic violence victims; Victim-offender mediation (VOM)
Violence. See Domestic violence victims; School violence
Violence prevention programs, 236. See also Conflict resolution education (CRE)
Volpe, M. R., "Restorative Justice Responses to Post-September 11 Hate Crimes: Potential and Challenges," 527–535
Vos, B., "Victim-Offender Mediation: Three Decades of Practice and Research," 279–303

W

Wemmers, J., "Victim Needs and Conjugal Violence: Do Victims Want Decision-Making Power?" 493–508
"What We Know About Environmental Conflict Resolution: An Analysis Based on Research," 191–220
Wissler, R. L., "The Effectiveness of Court-Connected Dispute Resolution in Civil Cases," 55–88

Z

Zehr, H., "Commentary: Restorative Justice: Beyond Victim-Offender Mediation," 305–315